PLAGIARISM

Article II of the Institution’s Code of Academic Integrity defines plagiarism as:

1. “Submitting a paper or answer in which the language, ideas, or thoughts are identical to published or unpublished material from another source without correctly giving credit to that source.

---Student Handbook, p. 6
---College Catalog, p. 12

Please refer to the Student Handbook and Catalog for more information on the Code of Academic Integrity and the enforcement of this policy.

According to the Concise Oxford English Dictionary, the verb to plagiarize means “to take (the work or an idea of someone else) and pass it off as one’s own” (1095).

In-Text Citation

In-Text Citation allows the reader to identify the source of information that you quoted or paraphrased in your paper. You will provide the reader with the name and page number of the source and in some cases the publication year. The reader can locate the source by checking your reference list. Please refer to MLA or APA Style guide for more information.

Example of MLA:
Information overload also includes data smog, the “the noxious muck and druck of the information age” (Shenk 28).

Works Cited

Example of APA:
Information overload also includes data smog, the “the noxious muck and druck of the information age” (Shenk, 2000, 28).

Reference List

Bruno Leone ed. San Diego: Greenhaven Press, 24-31